Letter from the President

Thanks to your past and continued support, in 2013 The Cultural Landscape Foundation® (TCLF) achieved significant milestones that provide greater visibility for landscapes, landscape architecture and its practitioners. TCLF is especially fortunate for the generous support of our 2013 Season of Events presenting sponsors The Davey Tree Expert Company and Victor Stanley.

Existing programs continued to grow richer and deeper; innovative programs offered fresh insights; our educational and advocacy efforts provided creative solutions and built bridges with other organizations and supporters; and we experienced exceptional audience growth accompanied by unprecedented media coverage. On behalf of TCLF's Board of Directors, Stewardship Council and Staff, I am proud to report the following highlights:

The What's Out There® free, searchable, online database of the nation's designed landscapes and their designers grew markedly and now houses nearly 1,500 entries and 10,000 supporting images. We launched What's Nearby, a GPS-enabled function for iPhones and similar handheld devices that shows all What's Out There sites within a 25-mile radius of any given location. The newly launched What's Out There Virginia and Texas initiatives will each add approximately 150 sites to the database. And, What's Out There Weekends drew thousands of participants in the Berkshires of Western Massachusetts, Philadelphia and Los Angeles. The Weekends succeeded with support from national sponsors

Bartlett Tree Experts and Coldspring. For 2014, What's Out There Weekends are being planned for Miami, FL, Richmond, VA and again in Los Angeles, focusing on the work of Ralph Cornell.

Landslide® 2013: The Landscape Architecture Legacy of Dan Kiley, focused on the life and legacy of one of the most important Modernist landscape architects. A companion traveling photographic exhibition, organized in only eleven months and featuring 45 original photographs (all donated) of 27 of Kiley's more than 1,000 designs, opened at the Boston Architectural College in November and is slated to appear at the National Building Museum in Washington, DC as part of a multi-year tour. Media coverage, led by the New York Times and the Associated Press, has drawn interest from institutions around the country wishing to book the exhibition.

Garden Dialogues, inaugurated last year, reveals the secrets to create great gardens through entertaining and insightful conversations between garden owners and their designers. These leisurely visits to great destinations throughout the country grew more than 50% this year – with many selling out weeks in advance. The Dialogues were made possible by the continued sponsorship of Seibert & Rice. We are solidifying plans for the 2014 Garden Dialogues.

On the advocacy front, TCLF, working with a coalition of local partners, succeeded not only in getting M. Paul Friedberg-designed Modernist Peavey Plaza in Minneapolis, MN, listed in the National Register of Historic Places, we also prevented its demolition following a protracted and coordinated communications and legal campaign.

TCLF also completed Pioneers oral histories with Joseph Yamada, a practitioner who over more than 40 years helped shape the San Diego, CA region; and with Laurie Olin, one of the profession's most influential, eloquent and esteemed members. An oral history with Nicholas Quennell is underway.

Finally, in late August, TCLF moved to new offices in a 1920's Deco-style, flatiron-shaped building overlooking Connecticut Avenue, just north of Washington, DC's Dupont Circle. In addition to being TCLF's offices, the site will be used for frequent "Prosecco and Prose" receptions and book signing events. The generosity of founding Board Member Jo Ann Nathan and her husband Stuart made the office renovation possible – and the work was done on time and, most importantly, on budget.

All of these achievements would not have been possible without the steadfast and generous level of public, private and corporate support.

Charles A. Birnbaum, FASLA, FAAR
Founder + President

Media Coverage

In 2013, TCLF continued to become more established as a national authority and the go-to source for information on cultural landscapes and received extensive strategically important national, regional and local coverage for various programs, initiatives and campaigns. TCLF coverage in Harvard Design Magazine, Dwell, the Washington Post Magazine, Monocle and elsewhere positioned the organization as a thought leader on issues including the future of landscape architecture, Modernism, design involving cultural systems, and more. TCLF's efforts on behalf of Peavey Plaza were the subject of repeat coverage throughout the year, first with its listing to the National Register of Historic Places, then with the successful resolution preventing its demolition (lead by coverage in the New York Times), and concluding with its number one ranking by the National Trust for Historic Preservation among preservation victories in an Associated Press story carried through the country.

Strong coverage by the Philadelphia Inquirer and other area media drew positive public and critical attention to the Philadelphia conference Civic Horticulture; extensive print and broadcast coverage in the Berkshires propelled What's Out There Weekend to record attendance; Garden Dialogues around the country drew solid coverage in each of its destination locations; and new oral histories for Joseph Yamada and Laurie Olin generated stories within trade press and, in Olin's case, an extensive feature with Metropolis Magazine, among others. The launch of the Dan Kiley retrospective was picked up by the New York Times, received an extensive photo spread in the Sunday Washington Post, and heavy coverage in the landscape architecture and architecture press. Along with previously mentioned outlets, TCLF also received coverage in the Los Angeles Times, San Francisco Chronicle, National Public Radio, Minneapolis Star-Tribune and others; design media outlets Architectural Record, Landscape Architecture, Architect's Newspaper, Architect, Interior Design, Architizer, Planetizen and more; and international outlets including World Landscape Architecture, Journal of Australian Garden History along with Huffington Post features, and extensive coverage on social media.

Finally, the passing of James van Sweden, subject of a TCLF oral history, was published in obituaries in the New York Times, Washington Post and other outlets, and included quotes from TCLF praising and contextualizing van Sweden's career.

What's Out There®

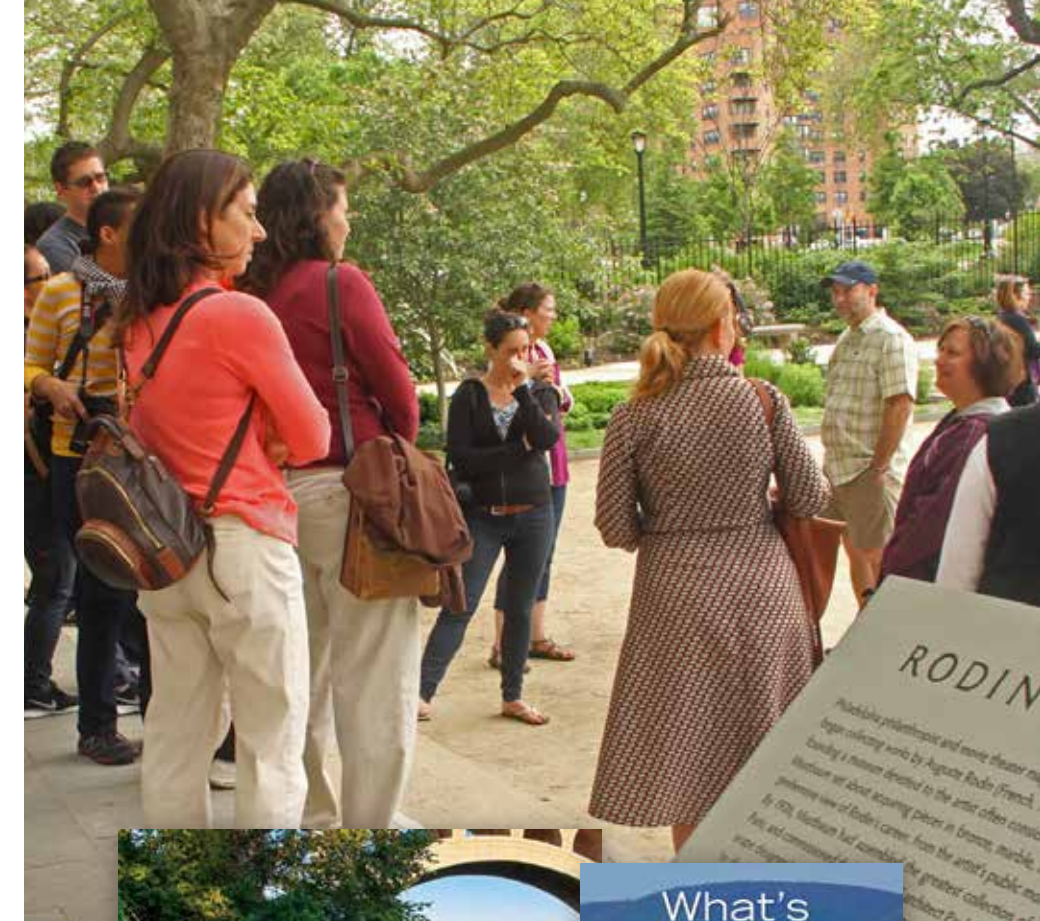

What's Out There® (WOT), the free, searchable Web feature detailing the nation's designed landscape legacy, now houses more than 1,500 entries, 10,000 supporting images and 800 designer profiles. Work has begun on hh for which we secured a National Endowment for the Arts Art Works grant, and What's Out There Texas – each will add approximately 150 sites to the database. For both efforts we are partnering with graduate-level landscape architecture programs at area universities including the University of Virginia, Virginia Tech, and the University of Texas at Austin and at Arlington. We launched What's Nearby, a GPS-enabled function for iPhones and similar handheld devices that shows all What's Out There sites within a 25-mile radius of any given location. What's Out There Weekends, now in their fourth year, drew thousands of participants in Philadelphia, the Berkshires of Western Massachusetts, and Los Angeles (which immediately generated calls for another LA event). All of our full-color What's Out There guidebooks produced for the Weekends are available for purchase as hardcopies and as free downloads through our Web site. The Weekends succeeded with support from national sponsors The Bartlett Tree Experts and Coldspring, more than two-dozen other corporate and private sponsors, and many local partners and volunteers.

What's Out There® Weekend Philadelphia

May 18-19, 2013 | Philadelphia Metro Area

What's Out There Weekend Philadelphia followed the Civic Horticulture conference (see page 13) and included 27 tours located in and around the city – nearly 500 people attended. Sites ranged from a walk along the Schuylkill River to see the remarkable public art in Fairmount Park, to a tour of Society Hill's Modernist insertions in the colonial fabric of East Philadelphia, to an exploration of Bryn Athyn, with its Country Place Era mansion and grounds designed by Charles Eliot and century-old cathedral. Special thanks to sponsors Bartlett Tree Experts (supporting What's Out There Weekends three years in a row), Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, The Aileen K. & Brian L Roberts Foundation, Pennsylvania-Delaware Chapter of the ASLA, OLIN, Wallace Roberts & Todd, StudioBryan Hanes and Le Pain Quotidien as well as media partner The Architect's Newspaper.

What's Out There® Weekend Berkshires

September 21-22, 2013 | Berkshire County

The early fall crispness and fantastic press coverage garnered more than 1,000 registrants for What's Out There Weekend Berkshires. More than 30 tours were provided, with sites ranging from the iconic Naumkeag and Edith Wharton's The Mount, to more rustic landscapes including a hike to Ice Glen (written about by Nathaniel Hawthorne) and landscapes in varying stages of ruin and restoration, such as Ashintully, Elm Court, and Ventfort Hall. Thanks go out to sponsors Bartlett Tree Experts, Boston Symphony Orchestra, Marcia Brady Tucker Foundation, Housatonic Heritage, the Town of Lenox and Gay Tucker in addition to Berkshire Visitors Bureau, Tanglewood, Shakespeare & Company, Berkshire Synergy Project, Berkshire Regional Planning Commission, and Boston Society of Landscape Architects for their support.

What's Out There® Weekend Los Angeles

October 25-27, 2013 | Los Angeles

After a well-attended launch party at Room & Board in the historic Helms Bakery Building, we offered exclusive, sold-out tours of LA's Network of Open Spaces, designed by Lawrence Halprin and Postmodernist in style, the Modernist Civic Center with Mark Rios's recent renewal of Grand Park, and at UCLA and Beverly Hills, among others. There were six tours in Pasadena which included Halprin's Plaza Las Fuentes and the gorgeously restored Storrier Stearns Japanese Garden; and six tours in Santa Monica which integrated Pamela Burton's Colorado Center with oceanfront sites stretching from the Getty Villa down to the Santa Monica Pier. Sponsors Coldspring, Park West Landscape Construction, James Irvine Foundation, Monrovia, ValleyCrest, Van Atta Associates, Historic Resources Group and the Los Angeles Conservancy were key to the weekend's reach and success.

Landslide®

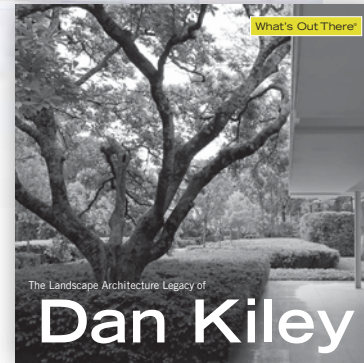

Landslide®, a program focused on threatened and at-risk landscapes and landscape features, continues to be one of our most high profile and effective projects. Through periodic TCLF Web site postings and the annual thematic compendium, Landslide in 2013 continued to raise the visibility of sites important and minor, by designers well-known and obscure.

Landslide® 2013: The Landscape Architecture Legacy of Dan Kiley

The great and unrivaled Modernist landscape architect Dan Kiley (1912-2004) was the subject of TCLF's most ambitious Landslide compendium. The centennial of his birth in 2012 went uncelebrated, so to honor his legacy we created a traveling exhibition of newly commissioned photography that documents the current state of more than two-dozen of his surviving projects. New York Times and Associated Press coverage accompanied the exhibition's opening at the Boston Architectural College on November 14 (timed to the 2013 ASLA Annual Meeting) where it remained through the end of the year. 27 Kiley projects captured in 45 photographs (all donated), include the Miller House and Garden in Columbus, IN, widely regarded as his residential masterpiece; the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial (location of the Eero Saarinen-designed Gateway Arch); and Patterns, the home of Governor and Mrs. Pierre S. "Pete" du Pont IV, among others. In our first venture into online crowdfunding, we used Kickstarter to raise funds for the exhibition catalogue (available for purchase on our Web site) and the campaign exceeded its goal by 20%. None of this could have been possible without the generous support of more than 100 donors, especially The Davey Tree Expert Company, Victor Stanley, Inc., The Hubbard Educational Foundation, Barbara O. David, Edmund Hollander Design, PC, and A. Lacroix Granit in addition to our educational partner ASLA.

Signboard exhibition at Oak Alley Plantation, Vacherie, LA

Landslide® 2010: Every Tree Tells a Story

The Every Tree Tells a Story photographic and outdoor signboard exhibitions continue to prove popular. The signboard exhibit extended its run at the US National Arboretum in Washington, DC where it was on view until mid-February, before traveling to Oak Alley Plantation in Vacherie, LA where it remained through July. From September through the end of the year, the show was at Louisiana State University's Hilltop Arboretum. The photography exhibition also continued its travels making an appearance at Cheekwood Botanical Garden and Museum of Art in Nashville, TN and the Thomas Stone National Historic Site in Port Tobacco, MD. In early 2014 the photography exhibition will open at Longue Vue House & Gardens in New Orleans. The Every Tree Tells a Story exhibitions are supported by The Davey Tree Expert Company.

Garden Dialogues

An outgrowth of What's Out There®, Garden Dialogues offer small groups the opportunity to experience some of today's most beautiful gardens created by some of the most accomplished designers currently in practice. The program brings together garden owners and landscape architects or designers to reveal the creative process, the give and take, and the collaboration that yields a great garden. Inaugurated in 2012, the program doubled in tickets sales and attendees this year and expanded its offering from 33 sites last year to 51 this year. These leisurely visits to great destinations throughout the country featured such top design professionals as Lisa Gimmy, Mario Nievera, Janice Parker, Edwina von Gal, Marcel Wilson, James Lord, Richard Haag, Larry Weaner, Gary Hilderbrand and Jorge Sanchez. The Dialogues were made possible by sponsors Seibert & Rice (for the second year) and Charles Luck Stone Center.

Pioneers of American Landscape Design® Oral History Series

Two new Pioneers Oral Histories, part of the on-going series of free, online videos that record the lives and careers of significant Postwar landscape architects, were completed this year. The first, about the life and work of Joseph Yamada, who in a five-decade career shaped important landmarks in San Diego and Southern California, debuted in May. It was made possible by support from TCLF's educational partner ASLA, and the financial support of Wimmer Yamada and Caughey, the National Endowment for the Arts, Joseph and Elizabeth Yamada, Maria and Robert Kelly Stewardship and the San Diego Chapter of the ASLA. The Laurie Olin Oral History launched in November. It is an unrivaled, 90-minute project showcasing Laurie's life, philosophies and nine seminal projects all videotaped on location in Philadelphia, Washington, DC and New York City. The video includes Laurie reminiscing about growing up in Alaska and recollecting his experiences at the American Academy in Rome and includes many of his wonderful hand drawings. This oral history was made possible by support from TCLF's educational partner ASLA, and the financial support of the OLIN firm. Two other Oral History's were in the works in 2013. First interviewed in 2004, videotaping for Richard Haag was completed in May including interviews at his home in Seattle as well as at Gas Works Park, Bloedel Reserve and two private residential commissions all in the Seattle area. A three-day seated interview marked the beginning of a new oral history subject, Nicholas Quennell, at the office of Quennell Rothschild & Partners in New York City in early October.

OUTREACH

Seminars, Lectures, Technical Assistance

The foundation's president provided technical assistance, strategic planning and treatment recommendations for high-profile sites across the country, many listed as National Historic Landmarks or on the National Register of Historic Places including: The Santa Barbara Botanic Garden, CA; Olana, Hudson, NY; the City of Greenville, SC; Village Green (a.k.a. Baldwin Hills Village), Los Angeles, CA; Cooper Hewitt National Design Museum, New York, NY and The Preservation Society of Newport County, RI. On the lecture front, in addition to the opening presentation at the Civic Horticulture conference, TCLF's president had more than a dozen public lecture engagements including: one of eight commissioned lectures for a three-day global summit dealing with Modern Heritage at the Getty in Malibu, CA; The Noreen Stonor Drexel Preservation Lecture for The Preservation Society of Newport County, RI; at the University of Southern California School of Architecture; a lecture on Cultural Landscapes, Design and Historic Preservation at the University of Minnesota, College of Design; a keynote presentation at the Annual Meeting of the South Carolina Chapter of the ASLA; at the National Academy Museum, New York, NY; at the University of Toronto, ON; at the Morris Arboretum outside Philadelphia, PA; a lecture at the Garden Club of America Zone III meeting for The Little Garden Club of Rye, NY; and the featured speaker for Preservation Austin's 53rd Annual Preservation Awards Celebration. TCLF's president also designed and facilitated a full-day of training on cultural landscapes for Nelson Byrd Woltz Landscape Architects staff in Charlottesville (with some three dozen present from their NYC and VA offices). He also offered counsel and served as an on-air expert for the PBS documentary "Frederick Law Olmsted: Designing America", scheduled to air in 2014.

EVENTS

An Evening Honoring a Model for Stewardship Innovation and Design Excellence

April 4, 2013 | San Francisco

San Francisco's Financial District was the setting for more than 225 guests at a reception where TCLF presented the 2013 Stewardship Excellence Award to the Golden Gate National Parks Conservancy, the Presidio Trust, and the National Park Service to honor and acknowledge their decades of stewardship at the 80,000-acre Golden Gate National Recreation Area. Premiering during the event was a 29-minute video for the 40th anniversary of the creation of the Golden Gate National Recreation Area entitled, "Why Not? The Legacy of the Golden Gate National Parks", featuring key park stewards and professionals who worked on the park, now viewable on our YouTube page. A beautifully illustrated What's Out There guide about major projects in the Golden Gate National Parks system was produced and is available through our Web site. The lead sponsor for the documentary and the event was the SWA Group, along with ValleyCrest Landscape Development, and Kay and Frank Woods. Additional sponsors included Fisher Development, Inc. General Contractors and Nelson Byrd Woltz Landscape Architects as well as more than 50 other local organizations and supporters. The Architect's Newspaper was a national media partner.

San Francisco Excursion

April 6, 2013 | Golden Gate National Recreation Area

This exclusive, sold-out, daylong excursion covered several significant projects in the Golden Gate National Parks including The Presidio, Golden Gate Overlook, Lands End and the Sutro Baths, featuring tours by senior Conservancy and Trust officials and the landscape architects responsible for those projects. After enjoying a curated vegetarian luncheon at Fort Mason's Greens Restaurant the tour continued to Crissy Field followed by a visit and reception at a private garden, originally the home of the pioneering Modernist landscape architect Thomas Church.

Civic Horticulture Conference
May 16-17, 2013 | Philadelphia

TCLF, in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society (PHS), organized a daylong conference that was the centerpiece of four days of activities. The conference, held at the University of the Arts, looked at the very hot subject of urban revitalization and city shaping through a horticultural lens and was attended by some 200 people. Speakers included leading landscape architects and thinkers Mia Lehrer, Keith McPeters, Henry M. White III, Thomas Woltz, Peter Wirtz and others, as they showed through their own projects how three types of places – The Street, Productive Gardens, and Parks and Plazas – are evolving to meet the needs of cities today. Conference speakers and attendees gathered at a launch reception the evening before for a sneak peek at PHS’s

2013 Pop Up Garden, their latest foray into temporary urbanism featuring exhibit elements from the Philadelphia Flower Show in a lively garden setting. Friday evening after the conference, speakers and attendees gathered at the OLIN studio for a post-conference reception. As previously noted (page 6), What’s Out There® Weekend Philadelphia took place over the following two days, offering the chance to explore Colonial heritage, innovative urban design, and hidden horticultural gems in Philadelphia with more than two dozen free expert-led tours. The Philadelphia events were made possible by funding from Mrs. Dorrance H. Hamilton, OLIN, Landscape Forms, Bartlett Tree Experts and Terrain. The Architect’s Newspaper was a media partner.

2013 ASLA Annual Meeting Events
Boston, MA

Thanks to the generous ongoing support of the American Society of Landscape Architects (ASLA), TCLF raised more than $100,000 at the Society’s Annual Meeting and Expo for the Foundation’s educational programs. Conference attendees joined TCLF for a number a special events.

HIGHLIGHTS INCLUDED:

Boston Excursion
From Manna to Modernism
November 14 | Westport, MA

The sold-out, daylong excursion began with a motor coach from Boston to the home of Doug Reed and Will Makris, where we enjoyed a much-talked-about Bloody Mary bar and learned about the work of the Westport Land Conservation Trust and The Trustees of Reservations. At the award-winning Westport Rivers Vineyard & Winery participants learned about the effects of the climate and soil on local agriculture; then they were treated to a “thinking coastal & eating local” luncheon at The Back Eddy where James Beard Award-winning chef Chris Schlesinger and Chef Aaron Derego created a special menu for the occasion. A dessert of warm apple crisp? was served, while former partners and employees of Dan Kiley including Henry Arnold, Cornelia Oberlander, Ian Tyndall, and Peter Ker Walker, recounted personal stories and anecdotes.

Opening Reception: The Landscape Architecture Legacy of Dan Kiley
November 14 | Boston Architectural College

The Landscape Architecture Legacy of Dan Kiley opened at a well-attended event at the Boston Architectural College’s McCormick Gallery. Attendees included Kiley’s colleagues, friends, fans, and family members, among them Jane Amidon, Gregg Bleam, Peter Lindsay Schaudt, and photographer Alan Ward. The event paved the way for an anticipated five-year run of the 45-piece exhibition which highlights Kiley’s vast and significant body of work.

2013 Silent Auction
November 15-16 | Boston Convention and Expo Center

Two new corporate sponsors, DeepRoot Green Infrastructure, LLC and Polycor, Inc., joined us in launching our ninth annual silent auction. The event, which took place over two days in the Expo Hall of the Boston Convention and Exposition Center, saw fevered bidding on pieces by nearly 70 landscape architects and artists. Highlights of the auction included pieces by Garie Waltzer, Claude Cormier, Roberto Burle Marx, Ken Smith, Alex MacLean and Michael van Valkenburgh. In total, the auction which is one of the Foundation’s largest yearly fundraisers, brought in over $50,000 in proceeds which will go to support the Pioneers of American Landscape Design initiative.
