Traveling Photographic Exhibitions

In tandem with the Landslide program, TCLF periodically produces traveling photographic exhibitions that illustrate the year's thematic compendium of threatened and at-risk sites. Each exhibition features newly commissioned photography, narratives about the sites and theme being explored, and ways for the public to get involved. There are currently three such traveling exhibitions:

The Landscape Architecture of Lawrence Halprin exhibition includes more than 50 newly commissioned photographs of important residential, civic, and commercial projects. Its debut in 2016 was timed to the 100th anniversary of Halprin's birth. View online exhibition.
