Letter from the President

In 2008, The Cultural Landscape Foundation (TCLF) surpassed several significant milestones: website traffic exceeded 5 million hits (21% more than 2007), with 38,000 unique visitors monthly; on-hand resources broke $1.6 million (18% more than 2007); and, during this 10th anniversary year, TCLF further extended its reach to a broad and diverse national audience. Widespread media coverage, including a full page feature in The New York Times Arts & Leisure section, on Sunday, November 23 demonstrates that our work is topical and newsworthy, and that the American landscape is a cultural institution worthy of celebration.

Ongoing partnerships with the American Society of Landscape Architects (ASLA), Garden Design magazine, and George Eastman House International Museum of Photography & Film yielded more than $500,000 of in-kind resources and we established new partnerships with Design Within Reach, Chicago Architecture Foundation, Illinois Institute of Technology, National Park Service, University of Virginia, and Golden Gate National Parks Conservancy. We organized three well-attended conferences—in fact, the audience for the Second Wave of Modernism was more than double the number expected—along with several events and garden excursions. TCLF delivered the final manuscript for Shaping the American Landscape to the University of Virginia Press; unveiled our second Pioneers oral history module, dedicated to Edward L. Daugherty (in concert with the Cherokee Garden Library, Atlanta History Center), and began finalizing the Cornelia Oberlander, M. Paul Friedberg, and Lawrence Halprin modules. At the annual meeting of the ASLA, we held a gala lunch at Governor and Mrs. Pierre du Pont's home in Wilmington, DE; a reception at the UPenn Architecture Archives; and, with Monrovia's generous support, raised more than $53,000 at our fourth annual Silent Auction.

The Marvels of Modernism traveling exhibition, our third annual Landslide partnership with Garden Design and Eastman had more than 16,000 visitors while on view at Eastman from November 15 through January 4, 2009. Additionally, Marvels signboard exhibits appeared across the country, with support from seven ASLA Chapters and launch events at Design Within Reach studios. Moreover, a specially commissioned outdoor exhibit based on last year's Landslide exhibition, Heroes of Horticulture, will be on view at the US Botanic Garden until November 1, 2009.

Next year promises to be equally prolific. In fact, our Pioneers Oral History series was just awarded a National Endowment for the Arts, Design Arts program innovation grant. The 2009 season theme, Shaping the American Landscape, includes a dedicated Landslide spotlight; the new Pioneers publication; and the launch of What's Out There?, an illustrated database, searchable by name, designer, landscape type, and location. What's Out There, generously supported by the Richard H. Driehaus Foundation, will elucidate the interconnectedness, breadth, and diversity of our shared landscape design heritage, assist scholarship and inventories, and bring attention to many otherwise invisible works of art.

Finally, we are pleased to say that we added three new members to the remarkable group of people whom we call our Board of Directors. We very much welcome the addition of Leslie Close, Dennis McGlade, and Peter Lindsay Schaudt and look forward to their contributions.

Now more than ever, there is an urgent need to make responsible stewardship decisions—do support our education and preservation initiatives for our irreplaceable landscape legacy.

Landslide 2008: Marvels of Modernism

For the second consecutive year, TCLF and Garden Design partnered with George Eastman House International Museum of Photography and Film in support of the Landslide initiative. Along with the online feature, the partnership again produced an exhibition of original photography and a signboard exhibit, both of which are further described later in this report. The selected Marvels were featured in a special section in the November/December 2008 issue of that magazine. During 2008, the Marvels garnered tremendous media attention, including being featured by The New York Times and National Public Radio.

Cultural Landscapes as Classrooms (CLC) Mini-Module

The Philip Johnson Glass House property became the subject of TCLF's first CLC mini-module. The module, to be launched in two phases, will allow users to fully immerse themselves into the multi-layered landscape through annotated panoramic images, maps, and other interactive features. Sasaki Associates is providing their generous support for the project by producing the interactive map.

Landslide 2009: Shapers of the American Landscape

In fall 2008, TCLF announced the call for nominations for the 2009 Landslide: Shapers of the American Landscape in Garden Design magazine. Nominations will be accepted through March 31, 2009 and the selected sites will be announced in fall 2009.

Website (tclf.org)

In the past year, TCLF's website experienced nearly 5.3 million web hits, including over 500,000 visitors for the year. These totals are up significantly from 3.2 million web hits the previous year.

The number of subscribers to TCLF's e-letter increased by 50% this year. For the first time, TCLF produced a special e-letter in February that announced our Season of Events for the year. Designed in the spirit of calendars from museums, theaters, and other cultural institutions, the Season of Events bulletin was distributed to our entire e-list and was published as a full-page ad in Landscape Architecture magazine. For the second consecutive year, we partnered with DoCoMoMo_US and DoCoMoMo New England, the National Trust for Historic Preservation, and the Recent Past Preservation Network to produce the MoMoMa partnership e-letter, launched on the first Monday in May, to highlight mid-century cultural landscapes and preservation issues.

Pioneers of American Landscape Design Oral History Series

Work continued on the M. Paul Friedberg oral history. A second interview was conducted with Friedberg and filmed by James Sheldon at three of Friedberg's extant projects in New York City in May. Work also focused on acquiring images and preparing the interview for rough cuts.

Additionally, Cornelia Oberlander was interviewed and videotaped at her home and office in Vancouver, Canada, in August 2008. The transcripts have been produced.

Thursday, October 16, 2008 saw the launch of the Edward L. Daugherty oral history module at a celebration and gala fundraising event to benefit the Cherokee Garden Library of The Atlanta History Center, in Atlanta, Georgia. A celebratory group of several hundred people came to view the film and an exhibit of Ed Daugherty's work.

A second interview was conducted with Lawrence Halprin in December at his home and office in the San Francisco Bay area and at his weekend home at Sea Ranch. Also, on that trip cut-away images were identified and scans of this work were obtained from the Halprin office.

Pioneers of American Landscape Design: Shaping the American Landscape: New Profiles From the Pioneers of American Landscape Design Project

TCLF submitted the final manuscript for Shaping the American Landscape: New Profiles From the Pioneers of American Landscape Design Project to the University of Virginia Press. The book, spanning over 250 years landscape design, includes 150 essays and 460 illustrations relating to landscape architects, city planners, architects, educators, authors, cemetery designers, golf course architects, and horticulturists. The publication will be released in Fall 2009. A variety of events and regional symposia to be held nationwide will accompany the launch.

exhibitions

Heroes of Horticulture

As a follow-up to the 2007 Landslide initiative, the US Botanic Garden commissioned an outdoor, panel version of the Heroes of Horticulture signboard for exhibit in their west garden area. The exhibit officially opened with an afternoon reception on October 25 to honor Dr. Charles Beveridge and Roger G. Kennedy as TEN 4 TEN awards recipients (see events section for more details). The exhibit will be on display through 2010, throughout which time associated tours and lectures will take place at the garden and on the National Mall.

Marvels of Modernism

In support of the 2008 Landslide initiative, TCLF and Garden Design magazine partnered with George Eastman House International Museum of Film and Photography for the second consecutive year in order to produce an exhibition of original photography. The exhibition, titled Marvels of Modernism, opened at George Eastman House in Rochester, New York, on November 19 and included such nationally-known Debra Bloomfield, Marisol Díaz, Tom Fox, Rick Hock, Tyagan Miller, Keri Pickett, Christopher Rauschenberg, Sam Sweezy, Lupita Murillo Tinnen, and Heather F. Wetzel. The exhibition will be on display through January 4, 2009 and will travel thereafter.

In conjunction with the George Eastman House exhibit of original photography, the Marvels of Modernism selections were also highlighted with a series of indoor signboard exhibits. TCLF partnered with seven chapters of the American Society of Landscape Architects to host the exhibit at venues across the country. The chapters, including Northern California, Texas, Delaware/Pennsylvania, New York, Washington, Indiana, and Minnesota, each arranged for the exhibit to be at multiple venues throughout 2008 and 2009. For the first time, TCLF partnered with retailer Design Within Reach to open the signboard exhibit at stores across the country (see more in the events section).

outreach + events

seminars, lectures, technical assistance

In addition to over 40 lectures delivered by the TCLF staff annually, in 2008, TCLF served as a co-sponsor for several conferences: The Second Wave of Modernism in Landscape Architecture in America and the two-part Designing the Parks.

The TCLF President also provided technical assistance and guidance at a diversity of cultural landscapes. This included:

- Jan 14-16 Naples Cultural Landscape Workshops, FL
- Mar 13-14 University of Arkansas Keynote Lecture, Fayetteville
- Mar 18-19 University of North Carolina Lectures, Chapel Hill
- Jul 2-8 Garden History Society, Keynote Lecture, Liverpool, UK
- Aug 1-3 ASLA, Florida Chapter Keynote, Jacksonville
- Sep 11-13 Frozen Music Dance Festival/Halprin Landscapes Conservancy, Keynote Lecture with Radio Simulcast at the City Club, Portland, OR

In celebration of TCLF's 10th anniversary, the Foundation hosted a year long celebration to recognize others who share our vision of "stewardship through education." Under the celebratory umbrella of TEN 4 TEN, TCLF bestowed Stewardship Excellence Awards on ten individuals across the nation whose stewardship stories that have the power to educate and inspire future generations of cultural landscape stewards.

The first event took place in Charleston, SC in conjunction with the Charleston Garden Excursion, other events followed throughout the year:

March 27, Charleston, SC

Honorable Joseph P. Riley and Patti McGee (left)

May 29, Pittsburgh, PA

Lindsay Bond Totten (far left)

June 12, Chicago, IL

Julia S. Bachrach and Cindy Mitchell

October 2, Philadelphia, PA

Laurie D. Olin

October 25, Washington, DC

Dr. Charles Beveridge and Roger G. Kennedy

October 30, New York, NY

Gregory Long (left, bottom)

The final event will take place on January 29, 2009 in Louisville, KY, where TCLF will honor Charles "Mac" McClure.

Charleston Garden Excursion

March 27-29, 2008 | South Carolina

TCLF partnered with the Historic Charleston Foundation to produce this intimate, two-day garden excursion. Attendees had the opportunity to visit the authentic landscapes of Medway Plantation, Mepkin Abbey, and Magnolia Plantation as well as some of the city's most significant in-town gardens, all viewed in the late-March flourish of camellia and azalea blooms. TCLF also kicked off its TEN 4 TEN events by honoring Mayor Joseph P. Riley Jr. and local resident Patti McGee with Stewardship Excellence Awards for their work in preserving Charleston's landscape heritage.

Events began at the historic Edmondston-Alston House with an opening reception hosted by Middleton Place Foundation. The evening reception took place on the house's second floor veranda, overlooking historic Charleston Harbor, and included informal comments and dialogue with Charles Birnbaum, TCLF President; Charles Duell, Middleton Place Foundation President; and Katharine Robinson, Historic Charleston Foundation Executive Director.

Other special events during the tour including evening receptions at the Nathaniel Russell House, an 1808 Federal townhouse owned by the Historic Charleston Foundation, the grounds of which highlight Charleston's rich gardening heritage; a dinner held in the drawing room of the historic Confederate Home where TCLF bestowed its first TEN 4 TEN award of the year to the Honorable Joseph P. Riley Jr.; and a private tour of Magnolia Plantation and Gardens by the site's Director of Gardens, followed by a dinner in the garden's conservatory where TCLF's Heroes of Horticulture signboard exhibit was on display. The closing reception took place at the historic Aiken Rhett House and included a toast to TEN 4 TEN award recipient, Patti McGee. TCLF closed out the myriad weekend events at a dinner of local fare at Magnolia Restaurant in downtown Charleston.

Roystonland Rediscovered Garden Excursion

May 9-11, 2008 | Northern California

In honor of Robert Royston's 90th Birthday year, TCLF hosted this two-day garden excursion in the San Francisco Bay Area. Limited to twenty participants, the "curated" garden excursion served to both commemorate Royston's legacy and to raise the essential funds to benefit the foundation's Pioneers Oral History module celebrating Royston's landscape legacy. Visitors came from all across America and the United Kingdom, and the two day tour of both public and private places culminated with a reception at the Royston's home overlooking Mount Tamalpais. The event was organized by Royston-biographer, J.C. Miller and raised $10,000 towards the completion of the online oral history module which will be launched in fall 2009.

Designing the Parks Conference

Charlottesville, May 20-22, 2008 | San Francisco, December 9-11, 2008

TCLF partnered with the National Park Service, University of Virginia, the Golden Gate National Parks Conservancy, and the George Wright Society in hosting the conference: Designing the Parks. The two-part event allowed attendees to examine the design of buildings and landscapes in regional, state, and national parks in San Francisco, California, and Charlottesville, Virginia.

Second Wave of Modernism

November 11-13, 2008 | Chicago, IL

TCLF partnered with the Chicago Architecture Foundation (CAF) to host the over-sold Second Wave of Modernism conference. To accommodate the more than 250 registrants, the conference was moved from the CAF facilities to Chicago's newly constructed Spertus Institute.

Events opened on the campus of the Illinois Institute of Technology with a tour of the historic landscape. The tour was followed by an evening cocktail reception in the McCormick Tribune Building and a keynote lecture, delivered by M. Paul Friedberg, and dinner in the Mies van der Rohe-designed, Crown Hall. The full-day of panel presentations including presenters from across the country took place on day two and was followed by an evening reception to celebrate the 2008 Landslide launch: Marvels of Modernism at Chicago's Design Within Reach studio. On the final day, CAF docents led attendees through the north garden of the Chicago Art Institute and Grant Park.

Through the generous support from the American Society of Landscape Architects, Design Within Reach Illinois Institute of Technology, Landmarks Preservation Council of Illinois, Bergmann Landscape Design, Charles J. Fiore Nursery, and Christy Webber Landscapes, as well as the tremendous success of the event, funds have been earmarked to produce a book from the conference proceedings.

Design Within Reach Marvels of Modernism Events

Throughout the Fall/Winter | Nationwide

With the support of our presenting sponsor, Design Within Reach, TCLF presented its 2008 Landslide selections, Marvels of Modernism, at a series of receptions across the country at the retailer's studios. The evening receptions were open to the public and drew hundreds of attendees from a diversity of professional fields. Five receptions took place at the following Design Within Reach studios (the final event will follow on February 5, 2009, in Southlake, TX):

- November 14 - Tree Studios, Chicago, IL
(in conjunction with The Second Wave of Modernism conference)
- November 20 - Cambridge, MA
- December 4 - Minneapolis, MN and Seattle, WA
- December 10 - San Francisco, CA

TCLF's American Society of Landscape Architects (ASLA) Annual Meeting Events

October 2008 | Philadelphia, PA

TCLF is pleased to announce that the myriad events held in concert with this year's ASLA Annual Meeting were a tremendous success, raising nearly $70,000 for the Foundation's educational programs. The meeting, which took place in Philadelphia from October 3-7th, was the most well attended to date, with nearly 7,000 registrants.

EVENT HIGHLIGHTS

Wilmington Wonders and UPenn Architectural Archives Tea, DE

The day-long event raised $20,000 for TCLF's educational programs. Attendees kicked off the visit to two private Wilmington gardens with a visit to the residence of Governor and Mrs. Pierre du Pont, Patterns, which Dan Kiley was involved in from 1992-1998 and is the last residential commission realized by Kiley. The site includes a potager, conceived as a walled garden and set on the edge of a gentle, architecturally cut slope; it is bisected by a canal which is anchored at each end with twelve-foot square pools. Following the leisurely tour, attendees sat down to a catered lunch hosted by the du Pont's on the property's upper terrace, overlooking the Kiley design. Following lunch, guests ended their time in Wilmington with an afternoon stroll through, Serendip, an astonishing unpublished masterwork by a local designer/owner.

As a fitting capstone for the day's sites, attendees travelled back to Philadelphia for a reception and curator led tour of original landscape drawings from the University of Pennsylvania's Architectural Archives. Many rare and early unpublished works by Dan Kiley, Lawrence Halprin, Peter Shephard, and others were shown. During the reception, special guest Cornelia Oberlander spoke on the collection's drawings of her work with Louis Kahn and Dan Kiley on early housing projects in Philadelphia.

Silent Auction

In total, nearly 65 works by more than 50 artists were auctioned over the two-day event, October 4-5th. The auction space was a wonderful gallery-style space overlooking the main convention hall. The breadth of work drew a diverse audience to the event and the reaction was extremely positive. Thanks to our Presenting Sponsor, Monrovia, TCLF earned nearly $52,000 during the event.

Auction Opening Reception

The Auction Opening Reception, held onsite and sponsored by Garden Design, was a wonderful way to celebrate the opening of the Silent Auction. The event drew several hundred attendees, including many of the contributing artists and TCLF Board members, while offering a preview of all of the donated artwork. TCLF was honored to have speakers Nancy Somerville, Executive Vice President of ASLA; Kathy Rudnyk, from Monrovia; and Diane Turner, Publisher of Garden Design, in attendance.
